

Elevate Your Clinical and Leadership Skills

CU Pharmacy's Post Graduate Year 1 (PGY1) Community-Based Residency invites you to step into a dynamic and innovative training experience. This program goes beyond traditional pharmacy practice, offering residents the chance to sharpen clinical skills while also exploring the business, initiating clinical services, and operational sides of pharmacy.

Residents spend the majority of their time at their main community site, engaging in direct patient care, prescribing medications using statewide protocols, and practicing leadership skills. They also dedicate at least one day per week in an ambulatory care clinic, gain five months of experience at a free student-run clinic where they serve as preceptors to students while caring for the underserved, and complete a semester in academia. Additional program components include a very structured longitudinal research project allowing the residents the opportunity to publish, elective opportunities, a teaching certificate, and more providing residents with a truly well-rounded foundation.

Accredited by ASHP since 2010, the program is part of the University of Colorado Anschutz, located just outside Denver. Through a rich blend of patient care, teaching, scholarship, and leadership development, the residency prepares forward-thinking pharmacy leaders committed to advancing community and ambulatory care practice.

This residency is exactly what I hoped for and so much more. I love having diverse community, ambulatory care, and teaching experiences. I find it rewarding to take my ambulatory care experiences and merge the clinical services into community practice.

Dr. Lindsey Villanueva Little,
former PGY1

About Good Day Pharmacy

Good Day Pharmacy is a locally owned and operated pharmacy group with 18 locations across Colorado, Wyoming, and Nebraska. Our pharmacies serve a wide range of communities, from small rural towns to larger urban areas, allowing residents to experience the unique opportunities and challenges of diverse practice settings. In addition to our retail locations, Good Day operates a Long-Term Care pharmacy and offers compounding services to meet the specialized needs of patients.

As part of the PGY1 Community Pharmacy Residency Program, residents are fully immersed in both the clinical and operational sides of pharmacy practice. Residents will have the opportunity to serve patients directly, while also gaining valuable leadership experience by participating on the Good Day leadership team. This involvement allows residents to contribute to decision-making that impacts all 18 locations and to develop the skills needed to successfully support and lead in a dynamic community pharmacy environment.
